Leaders Needed For Harrisburg Girl Scout Troops

I WAS TALKING to one of the Girl Scout leaders of Harrisburg yesterday and I learned that more leaders are necessary.

"Two Girl Scout troops had to stop meeting because they had no leader and a third one will have to stop this spring for the same reason unless somebody shows up," she told me.

"Also," she continued, "there are two school groups that want to form Brownie units but we cannot find leaders for them."

Right now there are 357 registered Girl Scouts and adult leaders in Harrisburg and Eldorado. They consist of one senior troop of nine girls, seven intermediate troops with 99 girls, 11 Brownie troops with 155 girls, 38 leaders, 36 committee members, 12 neighborhood officers and eight standing committee members.

Girls get a lot of good training in these Scout programs as well as lots of wholesome enjoyment. The local units are in the King Coal council and among the benefits of joining the council are:

There is a co-ordinated Scout program under the planning of a paid director.

The girls are eligible to go to the Girl Scout camp at Little Grassy lake. This camp gives girls further scouting training in accordance with national planning and should help arouse their interest in keeping on with scouting through the intermediate and senior level.

Training programs are made available for officers, Scout leaders and others working with the Scouts. Leaders will receive basic training course, outdoor training, troop camping, arts and crafts workshops and other benefits.

So for a fine Girl Scout program in our city and county, it appears that the material is here ready for adults to come along and join in the molding.

To Question Beck On Use of Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Senate Rackets Committee spokesman said today Teamster President Dave Beck's alleged "questionable use" of $270,000 in union funds is "by no means the end of the picture."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee also has information "about certain other transactions" between Beck's union and companies that Beck controls.

He said the committee will question Beck about both the $270,000 and the "other transactions" when he appears before it next week or at a later date. Beck has promised to appear Tuesday with his financial records.

"Smear Tactics" Condemned
Kennedy hinted at Beck's "other transactions" as Teamster leaders in St. Louis condemned the committee for using "smear tactics." They also accused the committee of using the press for "prejudging" the union—largest in the nation.

The statement was issued by the policy committee of the Teamster National Warehouse Division after a meeting attended by Teamster "crown prince" James R. Hoffa and western boss Frank W. Brewster.

Hoffa is under indictment on charges of bribing a Rackets Committee investigator to filch secrets for him from the committee. Brewster, who temporarily finished testifying before the committee Friday, is under indictment for alleged contempt of Congress.

Kennedy said Friday shortly before the Rackets Committee wound up its sensational first series of hearings that Beck took at TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (UP)—Disagreement over how best to defend Western Europe against Communism may delay a joint statement by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, British sources said today.

The highly secret defense talks centered around Britain's hopes to withdraw a substantial amount of troops from Germany and coordinate more closely its nuclear weapons and guided missiles program with the United States.

They were scheduled to end Friday but were carried over to this morning.

Plans Possibly Incomplete

This led British sources to believe that the British and American leaders still were some distance away from agreement on how best to put up an Anglo-American shield in Western Europe against the threat of Soviet expansion.

They said it would delay the drafting of the joint policy communiqué by Mr. Eisenhower and MacMillan and it may not be made public until Sunday.

Some diplomatic sources said the two principals were cordial but did not see eye to eye specifically on pulling British troops out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to cut down on Britain's defense budget.

Found Guilty in Gallatin County

Old Shawneetown Man Convicted on 4 Traffic Charges

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill.—A Gallatin County jury Friday found a 31-year-old resident of Old Shawneetown guilty on four traffic charges arising from an accident Jan. 11, in which a man was fatally injured.

James Dillard was found guilty of drunken driving, reckless driving, illegal transportation of liquor and operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

Dillard was charged after an accident in front of the Host House Cafe here the night of Jan. 11. Billy Smith, 43, of near Shawneetown, a passenger in the car, died several hours later. Dillard, who suffered face cuts, was hospitalized for a few days.

The jury deliberated 35 minutes. The nine men and three women recommended that Dillard be fined $250 for drunken driving, $100 for reckless driving, $50 for illegal transportation of liquor and $25 for driving without a license.

County Judge Joe Hale excused the jury and remanded Dillard to jail to await sentencing at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Mother Races Across World for Son's Funeral

WASHINGTON (UP)—A merchant ship raced through the Indian Ocean today in an attempt to enable a heartbroken mother to reach the United States in time for her son's funeral.

The merchant ship—the Isthmian Line's Steel Chemist—strove to reach the Indian Ocean island of Mauritius in time to make connections with an Air France plane bound for Paris next Wednesday.

The race across the world was set off last Wednesday when George Dunn was stricken with leukemia in Philadelphia. Doctors said he was dying.

Dunn's sister, Mrs. Robert L. Hill of Davenport, Iowa, telegraphed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), asking him to help bring home Dunn's mother—Mrs. E. C. Dunn of Crosby, Minn.

Mrs. Dunn was already at sea aboard the Steel Chemist bound from Penang, Malaya, to the Virgin Islands. At the same time Dunn's father, who was in Saudi Arabia, was contacted and prepared to fly home.

Dunn died Wednesday night. However, Humphrey's staff continued trying to arrange for Mrs. Dunn's return to enable her to attend her son's funeral.

Sales Clinic To Begin Monday

CARBONDALE, Ill.—"Brainstorming," the newest Group approach to problem-solving, will be featured in a series of sales clinics beginning in Carmi and Harrisburg next month.

Offered by the Southern Illinois University Small Business Institute and the Division of University Extension, the sessions, designed to stimulate sales and salesmanship by retail clerks, will also highlight play-acting and audience participation. Ralph Bedwell, director of the Small Business Institute, and SBI consultants W. B. Hastings and Frank Starnberg, will staff the clinics.

The Harrisburg sessions, co-sponsored by the Merchants Association and the local retail clerks union, will be held from 7-9 p. m. on the fourth Monday of each month at Harrisburg Junior high school. The first session will be held Monday, March 25, continuing for six meetings.

Beginning April 1, the Carmi clinics, co-sponsored by the retail division of the Carmi Chamber of Commerce, will be conducted on the first and third Mondays of each month for six meetings. A meeting site will be announced following registration.

Bedwell said the clinics will be able to accommodate 100 clerks apiece, and fees will be set at only $1 a person per meeting where registration tops 50.

Sample topics of the sessions include "Super Selling," "Salesman or Undertaker?" and "A Foot in the Door."

Estate Scandal

Gov. Stratton Asks Resignation of Public Administrator Charles Fleck

CHICAGO (UP)—Governor William G. Stratton has asked for the resignation of Public Administrator Charles J. Fleck.

The action was believed to have resulted from Fleck's involvement in the estate scandal of Frank Rozanski, immigrant Polish tailor who died in 1954.

Rozanski, 72, left no will and his estate came under jurisdiction of the Cook County public administrator's office.

A grand jury has been studying the manner in which Rozanski's estate was handled. Fleck has been questioned, together with Joseph Lucania, 45th Ward Republican committeeman and undertaker who gave Rozanski a $350 funeral; Theodore Zahler, former attorney in Fleck's office who handled sales of Rozanski's apartment buildings, and Mrs. Helen Campbell who testified she was the tailor's sole heir and who received most of his 70,000 estate.

Governor Stratton telegraphed Fleck Friday that "word reaches me that the Cook County grand jury may return indictments against you and others relative to an estate case."

"If this is a fact, I believe that you cannot carry out your responsibilities as public administrator. I therefore ask your resignation." The governor had been concerned about Fleck since the fall election. Then controversy centered around Fleck's methods of collecting campaign funds for GOP candidates.

Officers Installed

Speaker Emphasizes Salvation Army's Social, Welfare Program

"To do a complete job there must be both spiritual and physical rehabilitation—that our sole philosophy," declared Major Russell Crowell, divisional secretary of the Midland division of the Salvation Army at St. Louis, declared here last night.

Major Crowell was principal speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Salvation Army Advisory Board held last night in Wesley Center of the Methodist church. New officers—Charles D. Taylor, chairman; Mary Richardson, vice chairman; Annabelle Melton, secretary; and Frank S. Gray, treasurer—were installed by the major. Retiring chairman is Dr. John Slightom.

Major Crowell emphasized the importance of the Salvation Army's social and welfare program in its bringing people to Christ. "We've done so much in helping people that some thing it's all we do," he said. "But the primary thing is to reclaim lost souls. Every activity points toward the physical and spiritual rehabilitation of the person."

Aid Unfortunates
He told of the forming of the Salvation Army in London by William Booth, who was a prominent Methodist minister with a big church at the time. He had seen the people in the London area which compares to the Skid Rows of the United States and resolved to do something about them.

"He found that a hungry and ill-housed man is not receptive to a message," he stated. "His sole aim was to bring those people into a right relationship with God and it's still the dominant aim of the Salvation Army."

He continued:

Series of Violent Upheavals are Worst Since 1906

More Than 50 Quakes Cause Near Panic; No Loss of Life

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A strong temblor shook San Francisco again early today and apparently started a fire in an upper Market Street apartment building.

The temblor was the third strongest in a series which began shaking this city Friday. It registered a magnitude of 4.25 on the Richter Scale.

Six minutes after the 4:13 a. m. CST tremor, the fire department raced to Market Street to answer a fire alarm. Firemen controlled a fire in the apartment building in 20 minutes and 40 residents who had fled the structure returned.

All indications were that the blaze was caused by this latest shaker.

The series of violent upheavals, the worst since the 1906 disaster, destroyed millions of dollars worth of property over a 200-mile area.

There are few persons who remember the disaster of 1906 which killed 452 and did half a billion dollars worth of damage—and there are few who will forget the daylong series of over 50 quakes that caused near panic—but no loss of life Friday.

Friday, families huddled in streets in frightened groups as houses were twisted and furniture was smashed. But as the area still shuddered with occasional movement, over 20,000 of them packed a baseball park in the center of town Friday night to see the Boston Red Sox play the San Francisco Seals.

There was no thought of baseball 12 hours earlier, however.

A series of small shocks began at 12:30 a. m. CST, topped by a vicious and sustained 5.5 temblor shortly before noon. Skyscrapers whipped back and forth as panic-stricken office workers fled into the streets.

In the residential section of the city near the ocean, where the quake centered, houses twisted on their foundations, gas and water lines burst, and sections of the scenic coast highway dropped into the Pacific.

No buildings collapsed, and the 30-odd persons hurt received only minor injuries. But reports from a 200-mile stretch of northern and central California indicated the overall damage would run well into the millions of dollars.

The mid-day quake dumped cornices onto the sidewalks; shattered scores of plate glass windows; literally junked the merchandise of several supermarkets and opened a serious crack in a one-million gallon reservoir which caused some 1500 residents to be temporarily evacuated from the homes in Daly City, just south of here.

TEEN TOWN has a new director and officers and plans are being made for another big year. Mrs. Edith Hill has accepted the appointment of director and will be present during all operating hours of Teen Town. Mrs. Hill will be assisted in chaperoning the young people by volunteers from the 25 sponsoring organizations in Harrisburg. Teen Town, open from 6:30 to 9:30 p. m. on Mondays and 7:30 to 11 p. m. on Fridays, is located on the upper floor of the Harrisburg Eagles lodge, the space being donated rent free by the fraternal organization. The Weakening Wall

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

When Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain meets President Eisenhower at Bermuda later this month, the future of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is bound to be batted about. Today that outlook is too cloudy for the free world to feel wholly safe.

Well advertised are the cutbacks that have been made in NATO forces, particularly those of Britain and France. And the example has not been lost on the West Germans, already slow in building their own NATO army.

All kinds of justification are given for the cutbacks. Troops are needed elsewhere. The emphasis is shifting more and more to atomic weapons which are said to lessen the need for big ground forces on the European defense arc.

Still, those who believe stoutly in NATO's value as a deterrent to aggression insist that adequate ground forces are an indispensable element. They fear that sharp reductions could destroy NATO's steel backbone and leave the West's eastern perimeter guarded by mere token forces.

There is little question that what has been happening to NATO reflects a steady easing of Western fears that the Soviet Union will commit open aggression against Europe.

This relaxation has reached the point where participating nations feel safe in shifting forces to other fronts. Their leaders clearly believe these new fronts more important in the present world situation.

The real question is whether in fact they are more important. And that is one of the great matters Mr. Eisenhower and the new British Prime Minister must discuss at Bermuda.

Both are knowledgeable men fully aware that free men twice in this century failed to grasp that their liberty had to be guarded ceaselessly against tyrants.

In the years since World War II, the free peoples have been more steadily at the alert.

But we are approaching what seems like a major crossroads, where we must decide whether safeguards will be maintained at proper level or an increasing softness will be allowed to invest our efforts at defense.

If the trend is to be toward softness, then free men may once more invite the holocaust that struck the globe in 1914 and again in 1939. Tyrants live for the moment when the guard is down.

Once-Great B-17 Through

Almost unnoticed, a tired old B-17 made a flight recently from Maryland's Aberdeen Proving Ground, one of the large eastern military establishments. It marked the end of the road for the aircraft that was the backbone of America's World War II mass bombing raids on Germany.

No one who had any part in, or even just a fair knowledge of, the great assaults upon Nazi centers from 1941-45 will ever forget the gallant B-17's and their heroic missions.

Times without number, eyes in Britain turned upward as hundreds of the big Forts darkened the dawn skies on their way to the enemy's homeland. In their bomb-bays were thousands of tons of high explosives which smashed German industry and transport to rubble.

Today one big A-bomb can outdo their whole World War II effort in explosive power. The B-17 is a museum piece. But in its day it struck great hammer blows at the times and places we needed them.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Taxi Union In New York Had To Be Okayed By Chicago Mob; Hoffa's Pal's Family Got $1,000,000 In Commissions On Teamsters Welfare Funds; Sen. Hill Twiddles Thumbs On Aid To Education.

WASHINGTON. — The Senate Labor-and-management Rackets committee is preparing some big fireworks in New York City — at least as far as labor is concerned. One interesting piece of testimony investigators have dug up is how Sam Zackman, former boss of New York Taxicab Local 102 of the AFL-Union Auto Workers, got his charter.

"I was looking around for a labor union," Zackman secretly testified in a statement to be used later, "and I heard that the UAW-AFL was starving to death, and it would be a simple matter to get a charter from them. I have always maintained a friendship with Sam B. who is well connected with the mob, so I called up Sam and asked him what he thought about the whole idea. Sam said he would investigate the possibilities of the deal and let me know."

"I waited for some time, during which time B. told me that he would have to make connections with the Chicago mob before he could get a contract."

"About a month before I got the contract, a highly placed guy by the name of Paul Dorfman from Chicago comes into town and takes a suite at the Hampshire House. I was invited up and Sam introduced me to him. This was just before I got the charter. I only saw Dorfman for a minute and B. introduced me as the president of the new union."

"B. intimated that it took quite a bit of money and effort with the Chicago mob to get the dough for the charter and to get the charter."

HOFFA'S PAL

Significant part of this secret interrogation is the part played by Paul Dorfman. It happens that Dorfman is one of the closest pals of Jimmy Hoffa, the man who has been nudging Dave Beck for control of the Teamsters and who is now indicted for bribing a Senate agent.

Dorfman is head of the Waste Materials Handlers in Chicago, and is so close to Hoffa that Dorfman's wife and son received a million dollars in commissions for handling Hoffa's welfare funds.

When Dorfman was cross-examined about this by a House subcommittee under Congressman Clare Hoffman of Michigan, Dorfman pleaded the 5th Amendment. Later the congressional probe of labor racketeering was stopped through the adroit "good offices" of Postmaster Summerfield, though he now denies this.

The UAW-AFL, now the Allied Industrial Workers, is currently under investigation by Joe Belne, head of the Communications Workers, on the orders of the AFL executive council. The Waste Materials Handlers have been given 90 days by President George Meany to clean out racketeering or face loss of their charter.

SHAKEDOWN RACKET

The manner in which racketeers have moved in on the labor movement as a shake-down operation is further indicated by a secret memo in the Senate files pertaining to Sam Zackman's taxicab operation in New York.

"Zackman further stated," the memo said, "that Sam B. paid many of the initial bills of the union and introduced John Dio to him. Zackman stated that B. and Dio told him that they would finance the union to begin with and that he could pay them back from the union treasury later on. He stated that the principal purpose of B's local was to keep the dress manufacturers in line for the racket boys."

Johnny Dio, original name Dioguardia, is also a friend of Jimmy Hoffa's, despite the fact that Tom Dewey convicted Dio some time ago for extortion. Dio has now been indicted in connection with the acid-bidding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, but prior to that he played an important backstage role in the Teamster civil war between John O'Rourke and Martin Lacey to control New York City.

Dio, though once convicted by Dewey, threw his weight to the man who twice managed the labor end of Dewey's campaign, O'Rourke. As a result O'Rourke now controls the Teamsters in New York City. Incidentally, he is now under careful scrutiny by the U. S. attorney's assistants in New York, most of them Dewey boys.

FENCE-SITTING LISTER

Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama, who has done considerably more for his fellow men than some senators, is suffering a case of the jitters.

He's so jittery over the school bill that he's now fence-sitting. It may mean that there'll be no school bill this year.

In the past, Senator Hill has been a crusader for better education. He has crusaded as hard for more schools and better teachers' salaries as he has for better health. And he has done an A-1 job on both. He was the senator who introduced the Tidelands oil education bill whereby oil from the tidelands off the coasts of Texas, Louisiana, and California would go to all the schools of the 48 states.

But today, Senator Hill, who previously pushed all education bills, is not pushing. He's become fence-sitter Hill. He alibis that he wants to see what the House of Representatives will do about the school bill; so there's no need to rush.

This, however, was not his view in the past. In the past he was breathing down the necks of House members, demanding action.

There's a reason, of course, for Lister's fence-sitting. He's afraid the Powell amendment might pass the House. This is the amendment to withhold federal funds from schools which don't obey the Supreme Court on segregation. The amendment, proposed by the Negro congressman from Harlem, N. Y., who bolted to Ike last November but is now snuggling back to the Democrats, is opposed by the White House and congressional leaders.

However, it may pass. If it does, Senator Hill wants to be in a position to use delaying tactics in the Senate so that no school bill will be passed. For him or any other senator from Alabama to pass a school bill with the Powell amendment attached would be political suicide.

Note — Lister claims the U. S. Chamber of Commerce lobby is trying to block the bill. True, but in the past he was in the vanguard fighting the anti-school lobby.

NEW YORK (AP)—The channel swim . . . Charlie Van Doren, who tapped the till for $129,000 on NBC-TV's "Twenty-One," has placed his novel with Atlantic-Little, Brown. It's called "The Murdoch Way" and is set in the Middle Ages.

Ed Murrow landed Liz Taylor and Mike Todd for his April 5 "Person to Person." The couple will be beamed from Todd's penthouse apartment in Manhattan.

Talk around CBS has it that "Two for the Money," the Sam Levenson show that'll kick off Saturday night in a late hour spot, will be shifted in June into the first half of the Jackie Gleason hour when Gleason goes on vacation.

"Hey Jeannie" heads for the CBS-TV boneway at the end of its current run . . . Another shaky show at CBS-TV is "The Buccaneer." Ditto for "Hold That Note" at NBC-TV.

ABC-TV, already set with Frank Sinatra, Pat Boone and Guy Mitchell as musical entries, now has eyes for Teresa Brewer.

Bill Hartigan of NBC-TV is back from the Antarctic with 60,000 feet of color film and an 18-inch scar on his back. Hartigan picked up the bad souvenir when he plunged into a 40-foot glacial crevasse.

Leo Durocher has joined Nan Fabray in the cast of "A Man's Game," a baseball musical set for the Kaiser Hour on April 23 . . . Frankie Laine is beginning to shape up as summer replacement for Arthur Godfrey again.

Dag, Nasser Begin Crucial Negotiations

By United Press
Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt entered a crucial negotiating session on an island in the Nile today that could mean peace or war in the Middle East.

Hammarskjold was counting on his methods of "secret diplomacy" to accomplish what years have failed to do—lay the cornerstone for friendship between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

The U. N. chief and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi left Cairo to start the meeting in the privacy of a well-guarded house on a Nile River island outside the city. Nasser was to join them at lunch time.

Informed sources said Hammarskjold's legal adviser, Constantine Stavropoulos, called for verbatim records of the U. N. Security Council debates of 1948 and 1949 on the Arab-Israeli dispute and was busy studying them today.

In advance of the meeting neutral diplomatic sources said India's V. K. Krishna Menon had gotten Nasser to soften somewhat his demands for complete and absolute control over the Suez Canal and collection of shipping tolls.

But diplomats said he would have to go to Israel for talks with Premier David Ben-Gurion to get counter-concessions if he gets the Egyptian to give in on any of the key issues involved in the dispute. If Hammarskjold fails to bring Nasser and Ben-Gurion nearer, eventual war in the Middle East would be almost a certainty, diplomats said.

Lenient Fasting Regulations Decried by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII Friday decried more lenient fasting regulations for communicants and authorized daily afternoon masses to bring ancient custom into line with modern social conditions.

The new fasting rules will allow Catholics to eat solid foods and drink alcoholic beverages up to three hours before receiving Holy Communion and to consume liquid food and non-alcoholic beverages up to one hour before taking the sacrament. Plain water remains exempt from fast regulations.

Bishops were authorized to allow daily afternoon Masses in their dioceses. The new regulations will go into effect automatically on Monday, March 25, the feast of the Annunciation to the Blessed Virgin on the church calendar.

In Remembrance

In loving memory of Charles McClusky, who passed away March 24, 1953.

He bade no one his last farewell,
He said goodbye to none.
The heavenly gates were open . . .
A loving voice said "Come."

I often sit and think of you . . .
Of things you used to say.
I wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.

Though out of sight, you're ever still missed . . .
Still loved, still mine.
You will live with me in memory
Until the end of time.

Sadly missed by his mother, Mrs. John Gabel

She will entertain at Carmi on April 5 at a style show and card party sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority for the benefit of the Crippled Children's fund.

The hall was beautifully decorated in colors appropriate to St. Patrick's Day by Mrs. Bill Sandage and Mrs. Rebecca Flynn, the decorating committee. After the guest entertainer completed her part of the program contest games were played and several members won prizes. A towel shower was given in honor of four members who have birthdays in this month. Mrs. Forest Groves, Mrs. Wanda Ragan, Mrs. Curran Jackson and Mrs. Ethel Myers.

The refreshment table artistically arranged to follow out the green and white color scheme and lighted by green candles in crystal holders was in charge of Mrs. Pauline Arbie and Mrs. Bernice Lorrison who served a beautifully decorated homemade cake with ice cream and coffee. Mrs. Bennett, chairman of the entertainment committee, was congratulated for the fine program arranged for the evening.

The president of the auxiliary said it plans to have a member of the Illinois Veterans Commission speak at the next meeting on rehabilitation work needed and being done among Veterans and servicemen by organizations such as the American War Dads and Auxiliary.

Dixon Springs Station Shows Productivity Can Be Increased

DIXON SPRINGS, Ill.—In this southeastern part of the state, known for scenic beauty, the University of Illinois operates a 5,000-acre agricultural experiment station which is of inestimable value, especially to those who live in southern Illinois counties.

Great differences are found in Illinois climate and soils in the approximately 400 miles between the northern border and the southern tip. For this reason, the problems of caring for soils vary widely.

Dixon Springs Experiment station constantly demonstrates how less productive and erosive Illinois land can be made immediately productive and still be maintained for future use by a pasture method of farming.

Buildings Begun in 1935
Located in Pope county, Dixon Springs station is one of the largest experimental areas east of the Mississippi River. Experiments were laid out and buildings begun in 1935. The University assumed full direction of work of the station in 1940.

Major work consists of an extensive livestock and pasture program. A 300 beef-cow-breeding herd and 1,000 breeding ewes are maintained on the station. Some of the land, too poor or too rough to support crops or pasture, has been reforested. Forestry is a recent addition to the program of land use research and demonstration.

Prof. W. G. Kammlade, University of Illinois College of Agriculture and associate director of its extension service, is chairman of the committee in charge of the station. Supervising the staff is Robert J. Webb, a native of Ewing.

Major Accomplishments
Following are major accomplishments of the University's work at Dixon Springs.

Research has confirmed that it is possible to increase productivity of the poorer Southern Illinois soils. Thousands of tons of limestone and phosphate have been applied with successful results.

Experiments have demonstrated successful use of less-known legumes for pasturing, including lespedeza and ladino-clover.

In co-operation with the Soil Conservation Service, it has been known that keeping a vegetable cover on the land most of the year will control erosion.

Beef and sheep programs indicate that these livestock enterprises fit well into a farming program in this area of the state.

Use of large scale power machinery has demonstrated how brush land can be cleared and productive pastures established. Filling of ditches and clearing of lands has been done on a scale impossible with horse-drawn power.

Pelleting of feed in rations fed to cattle and sheep has attracted some of the most wide interest of any work done at the station. By pressing corn and hay into bite-sized pellets, lambs and cattle make faster gains on some lower quality feeds than on more palatable un-pelleted feeds.

Besides serving as an experimental area, Dixon Springs is used for educational and demonstration purposes. Approximately 5,000 people visit the station each year. Results of demonstrations and teaching efforts are evidenced by improving farming practices in Southern Illinois each year.

About 35,000 young Americans between the age of 17 and 18½ have enlisted in the Army Reserve for six-months active duty training at a Regular Army camp, and 7½ years Ready Reserve in their home town units.

According to the U. S. Census Bureau, the average young veteran is earning $500 more per year than the equivalent non-veteran.

Roman women athletes in the 4th and 5th centuries wore garments like the so-called "Bikini" bathing suit while participating in games. Mosaics uncovered in an imperial villa in Sicily show them racing, hurling a discus, and tossing a ball.

Toothless
A turtle, being toothless, cannot chew, but its jaws have sharp, horny edges and their closing shears off bits of food, which then are swallowed whole.

The County Used 830 Pints of Blood Last Year (Even Though We Gave Only 592 Pints to The Red Cross Mobile Unit).

HERE ARE THE ACTUAL CASH SAVINGS:

830 Pints of Blood (former cost) $20,750.00 per year
Thanks to the Red Cross' help it now costs only 3,400.00 per year
A SAVING TO ALL PATIENTS NEEDING BLOOD . $17,350.00 per year

NOW IT'S YOUR TURN

What are you willing to do for your Red Cross Chapter?

WE NEED TO RAISE FOR OUR 1957 QUOTA:

Services to servicemen and their families cost the chapter $2900.00 a year. Other programs and office expense cost $594.00. Our part of National Programs, including disaster relief, costs $5,645.00. At that rate, figure for yourself how long it would take Saline County to repay the $317,000.00 we received from the National Red Cross for our flood disaster in 1937!

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

Consider...

After the bleakness of winter comes Spring. Fulfilling a promise of long ago, the seasons follow one another in divinely planned succession.

All around us we see evidence that evil prevails throughout the world, but the Church gives positive assurance that God is ever present. As Spring brings new life to nature so God, through the Church, brings more abundant life to human beings.

Consider the daffodil—its freshness and beauty speak of hope. Consider the Church—its steadfast faith reaches out to undergird and strengthen mankind. God creates daffodils without our help, but intelligent cultivation makes them even more beautiful. Likewise, He depends on us to work in His Church, helping to spread its influence, to broadcast its message, to make a better world.

Let us accept this tremendous challenge and become a part of God's Church today.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Woes to Hypocrites'

Matthew 23:13-39
INTRODUCTION—It is difficult for some folks to think of Jesus as being a real "he man." Too many people think of him as being a physical, effeminate, sissyified individual. This is not true! See him in all his righteous indignation flashing out, with whip in hand, cleansing the Temple. See him in today's lesson standing up to that bunch of Scribes and Pharisees and calling them a bunch of hypocrites. No mere weakling would ever undertake such a task. We need more spokesmen for Christ today who will take a stand for that which is right. There are hypocrites today who go merrily on their way, because men and women, who are supposed to represent Christ, will not stand up to them and tell them what they are. People in many churches are never reprimanded for social drinking, dancing and crooked business deals; just to mention a few hypocritical activities of the modern Pharisees and Scribes.

I HYPOCRITES HINDER THE CHURCH (V 13-15)
Go with your pastor, or some other personal worker, into a home to try to win a lost person to Christ. Hear that lost one say: "There are too many hypocrites in the church," or, "I am better than some of your church members." Then you will understand exactly what Jesus is talking about here. Shame on any church member who will "shut up the kingdom of heaven" to the unsaved by their hypocritical lives!

Once in a while a person who is not really a Christian will get his, or her name on the church roll. This person will pray "long prayers" in public, or, take an active part in the church life. During the week this person will do things which a true follower of Christ will not do. The pastor does not know about it. The leaders in the church may not know about it, but the unsaved, unchurched people know about it. Try then to win these unsaved, unchurched people, and you run up against a stone wall. Shame, oh, shame on any church member who is a stumbling block in the path of the unsaved!

II OUTWARD CLEAN—INWARD FILTH (V 23-28)
A person who professes to be a Christian, but who withholds his tithe, or any part of it, is a hypocrite. This is what Jesus is saying here. He commends the Scribes for tithing the grain, oil, seeds, etc. by saying: "This ought ye to have done." He condemns them for leaving some other things undone, such as: "Judgment, mercy and faith"

Jesus continues by comparing them with a cup or platter which is washed clean on the outside, but left dirty on the inside. Let us never forget that God is more interested in what we are inwardly (in our hearts) than what we are outwardly. He knows that if we are right on the inside that we will naturally be right outside.

CONCLUSION—(V. 37-39) What is the result? The answer: "Your house is left unto you desolate." I wish you could stand with me in the Garden of Gethsemane on the Mount of Olives, where Jesus stood, and look down upon that beautiful city of Jerusalem! Without closing my eyes, I can see that scene and hear Jesus cry: "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, but ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate! Oh, how many individuals are left desolate today; how many church houses are left desolate today—because of hypocrites. Friend you alone know whether or not Jesus is talking to you. Why not heed his call and live like he would have you live!

CORN GROWING WINNERS — Runner-up winners in the National Selected Five Acre DeKalb Corn Growing contest in Saline county. Second place winner was Virgil R. Lovellette (left), who produced a yield of 124.02 bushels per acre. Third place winners were James W. Wintzler and Ben Wintzler (center and right), each producing a yield of 116.83 bushels per acre. The winners were proclaimed at a banquet held in their honor at DeKalb recently. First place winner, Joseph M. Hart, Harrisburg, with a yield of 137.69 bushels per acre, was unable to be present at the banquet.

Seedling Orders Skyrocket

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Boosted along by single orders of 203,000 and 150,000 red and white pine, orders for seedlings from the two state nurseries are skyrocketing at least 25 per cent ahead of last year, Director Glen D. Palmer of the Illinois Department of Conservation said today.

A year ago on March 15, the Division of Forestry had received orders for more than six million trees and multiflora rose; on March 15 this year, the orders had passed the eight million mark and the office staff was unable to keep up with the daily batch of mail.

E. E. Nuuttila, state forester, reported to Director Palmer that the supply of red pine and multiflora rose seedlings will be exhausted early in April, and that the orders have completely exhausted the supply of red gum, tulip poplar and shortleaf pine.

Conservation Reserve trees must be planted on land normally used for crops such as corn, soybeans, wheat and sorghums. During the 10-year period, the landowner must not harvest Christmas trees, ornamental trees or Christmas greens. In addition he must comply with allotment programs and reduce the acreage of soil bank crops. No grazing of the forested land is permitted.

No Strength in Corn Prices Expected

URBANA—The corn problem is getting worse faster this year than in other years of increasing stocks. T. A. Hieronymus, University of Illinois grain marketing specialist told a Farm and Home Week session on Tuesday.

Production exceeds use. So we must conclude that the price is higher than will allow the production to be used up, and it will therefore decline in the long run unless production is reduced, Hieronymus stated.

The lower corn support rate is one of the most encouraging longer range factors now in the market picture. According to the specialist, lower prices are the means by which use will be increased and production and use brought into balance.

The price for the rest of this marketing year depends on the carryover, sales by CCC and the into-loan movement of corn, he said. CCC stocks are larger than they were last year, and they are older. This points to a further increase in sales.

One stabilizing factor would be the movement of corn into the $1.25 loan. This appears to be the only outlet for farmer-owned corn. If CCC sales continue at their current rate of 10 million bushels a week, there is not too much room left for farmers to sell corn, Hieronymus concluded.

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer

Many gardeners probably have started their first seedlings of such early home garden crops as lettuce, radish, spinach, and set onions. Ardent fans of early gardening often try to get these cool weather crops into the soil near the middle of February, regardless of temperature or soil condition. Others wait for more favorable conditions.

However, when the first warm days of March arrive, interest in gardening increases, and well it might, because the time then is near for planting these and such other crops as garden peas, cabbage, and related leafy vegetables. Early seedlings of Irish potatoes also may be possible.

One of the problems of early spring gardening is to avoid working the soil while it is too wet. A good seed bed, important to success, is hard to prepare unless the soil has become dry enough to crumble easily when spaded and raked. This varies with the kind of soil and the drainage of the area.

William T. Andrew, vegetable specialist at Southern Illinois University, recommends using starter solutions when setting out vegetable and flower plants. They help the plants to begin growing vigorously. A starter solution is made by dissolving in water high analysis soluble fertilizers, marketed under various trade names. The characteristic of such a fertilizer is its high phosphorus content in relation to nitrogen and potassium, such as an analysis of 10-52-17.

Phosphorus is a necessary plant element that does not move through the soil. Consequently, it is not available to a new plant until roots are established and move to phosphorus in the soil. This lack of phosphorus caused a purplish or bluish tinge in the plant leaves often attributed to cold weather. The reason it is noticeable more frequently in plants set out in early spring is that root growth is slower and it takes the plant longer to be able to obtain its own phosphorus from the soil. Pouring a small portion of starter solution in the plant hole at time of transplanting settles the phosphorus about the roots for easy absorption and gives the plant a quick growth boost.

Is the farm tractor ready for stepped up spring field work? That's a good question for a farmer to ask himself just now, says Fred W. Roth, SIU agricultural engineer. The time is near to prepare fields for spring-planted crops. Usually weather conditions are so changeable at this season that a farmer cannot well afford to lose time for avoidable machinery repairs at a time when field conditions are right for work. Losing a good working day then may mean the loss of a week or more of time and upset the cropping schedule.

Any major repairs needed by the tractor or other farm machinery should have been completed by this time. Winter days of slack from work is the time for doing such work in the farm shop. However, there still is time to tune-up the tractor. Roth says this includes attention to the ignition system and to a few other matters, including engine compression. Check the battery connections. Clean the spark plugs and adjust the terminals so as to get the right clearance for a strong spark. Check the spark timing and adjust or replace the breaker points so as to get the best possible spark from the tractor's ignition system. A well-timed strong electric spark means more power and lower fuel consumption.

Engine compression also may be checked easily, he says. Good compression is highly important to obtaining full power and dollar value from the fuel consumed. Engine compression, or resistance, may be fairly accurately checked by hand cranking the motor after it has been warmed by running a few minutes. When the motor has been shut off, hand-turning the motor slowly will enable the operator to test the amount of uniformity and the resistance for each cylinder. Uneven cylinder compression may indicate leaky valves or worn piston rings and call for a repair job by a competent mechanic. The repairman will be more cooperative and do a better job if he is not pushed for a hurry-up job when field work is waiting on the farm.

Record Poultry Production Forecast for 1957

URBANA—Production of eggs, broilers and turkeys is likely to exceed the records set in 1956. This is what James R. Roush, University of Illinois poultry marketing specialist told visitors attending a Farm and Home Week session earlier this past week.

An increased supply of eggs and decreased demand, at least for storage during the first half of the year, will probably cause egg prices to remain lower than they were during the first half of last year, Roush reported.

During the last half of 1957, egg supplies and prices should be about the same as in the same period of 1956.

Looking to broilers, Roush does not expect farm prices to go over 20 cents a pound if the present rate of placements is maintained.

Present prospects also point to a new record high in turkey production in 1957. A survey of turkey growers over the country showed that they intended to increase production by 10 percent above 1956. If these intentions are carried out, we are likely to have lower prices for turkeys than we had last fall. The trend toward heavy-breed turkeys is also expected to continue.

Don't Waste Manure; Valuable Fertilizer

You won't record manure as a direct source of income on your tax report.

But it's a source of additional profit from your dairy herd if you handle it right, says Ralph Johnson, extension dairy specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

One dairy cow can produce as much as 12 tons of manure a year. Recent figures value that manure at $8 a ton in terms of higher crop yields, Johnson says.

Manure normally returns to the soil 75 percent of the nitrogen, 80 percent of the phosphorus and 90 percent of the potassium in the crops eaten. If handled right, it also returns 40 percent of the organic matter removed from the field.

Yet Johnson estimates that one-third of all this potential fertilizer never gets back to the soil because of leaching and failure to preserve the liquid of the manure. About half the total plant food is in the liquid.

The specialist suggests that you use plenty of bedding to absorb and hold liquid manure. And haul manure to the field every day that you can. Fermenting manure increases nitrogen loss.

Thousands of Illinois Farmers Use Soil Conservation Service

Over 45,000 Illinois farmers are now working with soil conservation districts in Illinois and in this way are utilizing the technical assistance of the Soil Conservation Service, according to B. B. Clark, State Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, Champaign, Illinois. An additional 8,798 farmers received assistance in 1956 from the Soil Conservation Service as a result of their requests for help in establishing soil conserving practices through the Agricultural Conservation Program of ASC.

The soil conservation districts in Illinois started work with 3,793 new cooperators during the 1956 calendar year. This group of farmers has begun working, with assistance of the SCS technician, toward developing a farm conservation plan for each acre of their land, which will use the land within its capabilities and treat it according to its needs. Clark pointed out that such farm plans are a necessary guide to proper practical and economic progress toward the conservation farmer's goal.

In discussing progress for the 1956 year, Clark listed, among other accomplishments, 697,639 acres of soil surveys for use in farm conservation planning, 62,388 acres of contour farming, 32,364 acres of pasture improvement, 50,127 acres on which drainage was improved, 684 miles of terraces and diversions, over 1,900 ponds constructed, 1,020 concrete structures for gully control and stabilization of watercourses, and over 2,600 acres of grass watercourses established.

Clark pointed out that the farm conservation plans also include use of land for woodland and wildlife purposes. During the year cooperators fenced or otherwise protected 6,785 acres of farm woodland from grazing and planted 56,615 rods of shrubs for hedgerow to establish living fences. 3,616 acres of trees were planted on the farms of district cooperators.

Clark said farmers interested in participating in the district program in 1957 may contact one of the directors of their local district or the Soil Conservation Service representative in their county.

Developments on the small watershed program in Illinois during 1956 reported on by Clark were to the effect that nine applications had been received to date covering 351,413 acres. Of these, 5 which include 163,700 acres have been authorized for planning assistance. One work plan has been authorized to begin installation of works of improvement.

The truck was from Iowa, headed for New Jersey, when the driver fell asleep at the wheel about midnight. Police and motorists hunted two hours in the dark to round up all the porkers. One was killed when the truck tipped over, another when struck by a car.

Herrin Beats Elgin, 66-60, at State

Tigers to Play Notre Dame in Semifinal; Collinsville vs. Ottawa

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Herrin, which knocked off previously unbeaten Elgin, and Collinsville, which survived a near-upset in a rough and tumble game with Galesburg, led the way today into the semifinals of the state high school basketball tournament.

In other quarterfinal action Friday, Ottawa nipped Champaign to gain the right to meet Collinsville in this afternoon's semifinals, and Quincy Notre Dame came from behind to bowl over Evanston and move into the other semifinal against Herrin.

A new state champion will be crowned tonight when the semifinal winners collide for the title at 9 p. m.

Herrin pulled off the major surprise in Friday's action by handing Elgin its first defeat in 28 games, 66-60, and thereby preventing the possibility of a title clash between Elgin and Collinsville, which would have been the first time in state tournament history that two undefeated teams met for the title.

Herrin took a 4-3 lead early in the first period and never surrendered it until Elgin knotted the score at 58-58 with 3 minutes and 5 seconds left in the game.

Sparks Herrin Attack

But Herrin coolly collected six free throws and a bucket in the remaining time while the best Elgin could do was two free throws by Dick Becker, and the game ended 66-60.

The victory story for Herrin was told in shooting percentages. The Tigers hit 48.9 from the field, while Elgin's accuracy mark was 35.7.

John Tidwell, a 6-4 center, sparked the Herrin attack with 21 points, but got important help from forward Jim Gualdoni and guard Dick Box, both of whom collected 16 points.

The rough and tumble Collinsville-Galesburg fray almost provided another upset—and a near riot—as Galesburg's small and scrappy Silver Streaks rallied from a 14 point halftime deficit to lose out by only two points, 61-59.

Champaign-Ottawa Nip and Tuck

The victory was Collinsville's 33rd without defeat this season. When the game ended, supporters of both teams poured on to the floor, and there were a few punches.

Bradley Meets Memphis State In NIT Final

NEW YORK — Bradley's bouncing Braves match their all-around finesse against Memphis State's "fire house" brigade today in the final of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Led by 6-foot-7 Barney Cable, Bradley reigned as a six-point favorite for the championship game, which will be nationally televised.

The high-scoring Braves from Peoria, Ill., already have established three new Garden records while averaging 105 points in two tournament games, and are expected to set another mark against Memphis State. They need only 57 points today to erase the three-game NIT highwater mark of 266 set last year by Louisville, the non-defending champion.

However, in Memphis State, the Braves will be facing a dangerous speedy club that has scored three straight upsets in gaining the final and has captured the hearts of the New York fans with its never-say-die spirit.

Cable has been the big gun in the Bradley attack, scoring 53 points in two games. And behind him are sure capable operatives as 6-foot-6 Joe McDade, 6-foot-5 Shellie McMillon and 6-foot-2 Joe Mason.

Memphis State doesn't figure to match the Braves' backboard strength, for their tallest player is 6-foot-5 Orby Arnold. However, the Tigers build their go-go attack around Win Wilfong, a tireless ballhawk, and two classy guards, Jack Butcher and Bob Swander.

es and shoves before police cleared the floor.

The Champaign-Ottawa clash was nip and tuck all the way, with the score tied 23-23 at halftime and 37-37 at the end of the third period.

Ottawa held a slim 52-50 lead with 17 seconds to go when Pirate guard Jerry Varland sank two free throws for insurance. Champaign's Sidney Johnson netted one free throw to make the final score read 54-51.

In the final game of the night, Notre Dame's Raiders trailed 33-29 at halftime and 43-42 going into the final period.

But then they got hot and hit 28 points in the final period to catch and pass Evanston and win 73-60.

Sophomore 6-5 center Bill Kurz was the big gun for Notre Dame, smacking in 22 points in the last period to spark the rally and finish with a total of 31 points.

Berrios Wins

Split Decision from Carmelo Costa

NEW YORK — Little Miguel Berrios, brand new American featherweight champion and semi-finalist in the tourney for the vacant world crown, said today, "I must have the best title for my four keeps."

Stocky, broad-shouldered Miguel attained his new prominence by chasing Brooklyn's speedy Carmelo Costa about Madison Square Garden's ring Friday night and flooring him once while enroute to a single-point, 12-round, split decision.

Each weighed 125 pounds, just one under the feather limit. Miguel was favored at 8.5.

Victory in the nationally televised and broadcast fight earned the 24-year-old Puerto Rican terrier the right to meet Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria, Africa, in the semi-final 12-rounder at Washington, D. C., April 26.

Later the Washington winner will fight Cherif Hamia of France, European champion, for the world title left vacant by Sandy Saddler's recent retirement.

Wilt Big Factor

Kansas 10-Point Favorite Over North Carolina in NCAA Final

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Odds-makers, figuring on Wilt Chamberlain's fabulous talent for scoring and rebounding, rate Kansas a 10-point favorite over North Carolina in tonight's NCAA title basketball game.

Kansas won its berth with an easy 80-56 win over San Francisco while North Carolina, ranked No. 1 in the nation, took a thrilling 74-70 win over Michigan State after three overtime periods.

San Francisco Coach Phil Woolpert summed it up this way:

"The big factor was we didn't contain the other four men. Chamberlain is no one-man team, there is no such thing. He hurts you on the boards, but the other four men hurt you worse."

The towering goal-getter was brilliant, as usual, getting 32 points and grabbing 11 rebounds. North Carolina's great Lennie Rosenbluth lived up to his press notices with a 31-point performance.

It is a game the nation's basketball fans have waited for all season. Kansas has been rated No. 2 most of the season with North Carolina, unbeaten now in 31 starts, ranked at the top.

Coach Frank McGuire of North Carolina said the Michigan State tangle was "one of the toughest games we've played this season and we feel very lucky to have won it."

Michigan State Coach Fordy Anderson said, "I feel our team did the best job it could do. Fate just had it we weren't supposed to win this one. We had all kinds of opportunities, but so did North Carolina before it finally won it."

The tough North Carolina-Michigan State struggle was the second longest in NCAA playoff history. Canisius had to go four overtimes to beat North Carolina State, 79-78, in the first round at New York last year.

Deadlocked 29-29 at halftime, it was 58-58 at the finish of standard playing time, 64-64 after the first overtime and 66-66 after the second.

Kansas, which had expected a great battle with San Francisco, breezed through with little pressure.
